

Senior Instructor of Ecology

The College of Natural Resources (CNR), University of Idaho invites applications for a Senior Instructor of Ecology to support our undergraduate and graduate programs. Primary responsibilities include instruction of existing online ecology- and restoration-focused courses at the undergraduate and graduate level and developing and delivering new online ecology and restoration courses to broaden CNR's portfolio of online course offerings. Additional duties include assisting undergraduate and graduate student advising, student recruitment, and facilitating faculty with online course development and assessment.

For more information including required and preferred qualifications, see <https://uidaho.peopleadmin.com/postings/32352>. Application deadline is open until filled, however, priority will be given to applicants who have submitted materials by July 23, 2021.