

Organization: Alaska's Nushagak King Camp
Location: Nushagak River, Alaska

We are a remote Salmon fishing camp located on the Nushagak river in Western Alaska and are currently accepting applications for 1-2 positions.

Our camp internship experience will be invaluable for students to become expert field managers in camp design, set up and maintenance; client hospitality; boating, fishing and guiding. We hope to provide an opportunity for students to gain enough experience to become a valuable employee in the outdoor recreation management area in the future.

The internship would include acting as a guide apprentice to gain experience in running and maintaining boats, fishing for and processing Alaska salmon, and guiding clients.

We plan to begin setting up camp around June 13 and completing camp around July 9. Due to the remote nature of the camp and the logistics of setup and takedown we require a commitment for the entire time. Dates are a bit fluid because they rely on bookings and Salmon runs. Also, as we are located in a very remote part of Alaska, workdays and hours can be sporadic and/or long.

Getting to camp requires commercial air travel to Dillingham, Alaska and then a several hour boat ride across Bristol Bay inlet and up the river. Accommodations are Waterproof tent/cabins on platforms. Homestyle meals are provided.

It's not all work. There will be time for fishing and exploring!
